

Need help adjusting to minimum wage increases and earned sick and safe time?

Here are a few ways the City of Minneapolis is helping small business comply with ordinance changes

Need individualized assistance?

Free, one-on-one consulting for small business

General business assistance: The Business Technical Assistance Program (B-TAP) connects you with a business consultant who can go through your financial documents, general business advising, and/or, and help you with financial planning. To connect with a consultant, look at our list of providers, choose which one you think best suits your needs, and email or call them directly.

These consultants are hired by the City of Minneapolis through B-TAP and are free of charge for Minneapolis businesses. If you have questions, contact B-TAP btap@minneapolismn.gov

Got questions?

Civil Rights Department

Legal and ordinance questions: The Minneapolis Department of Civil Rights enforces the Minneapolis Minimum Wage and Sick and Safe Time ordinances and educates the public about its rights and responsibilities. Employers are encouraged to contact labor standards staff for a proactive consultation to ensure compliance and avoid the possibility of fines down the road.
